Lisa and Chris became friends when they were studying at McGill University in Montreal. She knew he was a great guy and always wanted to set him up with someone but could never figure out who... Until one day her friend suggested that person be her. Turns out Chris had always had a little crush on Lisa and she never knew.

THE CEREMONY

With a love of nature and the outdoors, Lisa and Chris decided to host their rustic wedding outside. A close friend officiated, an uncle played the guitar and Lisa wore a veil that had been passed down to five different brides in Chris' family. All the ladies in the bridal party wore beautiful baby's breath flower crowns and, at the centre of it all, a gorgeous white floral arch enriched the boho theme.

The Bride Says... "Don't be afraid to do things differently! Originally, everyone thought I was crazy for not having a wedding cake, allowing my bridal party to choose their own dresses and decide to hold our entire wedding outside! Some of our decisions were non-traditional but that's just who we are! It all worked out perfectly and everyone had a great time so don't be concerned with following the 'classic' wedding route!"

THE RECEPTION & DECOR

To honour the couple's worldwide travels, all of the tables at the reception were named after one of their favourite places. Keeping the atmosphere natural and rustic were blush and white centrepieces mixed with greenery-filled table runners. Taper candles and vintage plates made the evening feel elegant yet boho, perfectly showcasing the couple's love of nature. Luminous Weddings captured it all with ease.
